PREFACE

This section of the Standard Catalog contains about one thousand titles of the most representative and useful books on social, economic and educational questions, arranged under the class numbers of the Dewey decimal classification, with descriptive and evaluative notes. Author and subject indexes are appended. This Catalog, covering the Sociology (300) division of the Dewey classification, will later form part of a dictionary catalog of 5,000 of the best books for adults on all subjects that should be represented in a public library of that size. As now printed, it includes more volumes than will be listed in the final Catalog. This section is issued in advance of the full Catalog in response to requests from public libraries and library commissions, because of the need of an up-to-date list of books on sociology and economics, because it seemed wise to print a test section in the hope of getting valuable criticism before issuing the full Catalog, and because the publishers wish to find out whether there is a demand for a classed catalog, printed in sections, in addition to the full dictionary catalog.

The Standard Catalog is the third in the Standard Catalog Series, already including the Children's Catalog, issued in three sizes, with its 1918 Supplement, and the Fiction Catalog. It is the intention of the publishers to issue complete Standard Catalogs in dictionary form in sizes varying from 1,000 to 10,000 titles, including adult fiction, and to revise them every year or two.

Method of compilation. Questionnaires were sent out to a number of librarians, before beginning the work, dealing with its scope, form, and the data to be included. With these suggestions to guide her, in addition to her own experience in public libraries, large and small, and in one state library, the compiler formed her plan of work. No attempt was made to go over in detail the ground so carefully covered by the American Library Association up to 1912, altho some books published prior to 1912 and not included in the A. L. A. Catalog and Supplement have been listed at the suggestion of collaborators. The chief sources used for the older books were the A. L. A. Catalog of 1904 and its Supplement (1904-1911) and the Classified Catalog of the Carnegie Library of Pittsburgh. Beginning with 1912, the compiler checked such titles as might be included in a library of 10,000 volumes, in the bulletins of the Carnegie Library of Pittsburgh, the Cleveland Public Library, the Pratt Institute Library, the St. Louis Public Library, and the New York Branch Library News. These were clipped and mounted on cards, together with material from a number of other sources, including lists in bulletins of library commissions, notably that of Wisconsin, the New York Best Books, the Booklist, the Russell Sage Foundation Bulletin, etc. The file of book reviews accumulated by the Book Review Digest was constantly used. In this way a tentative list of some 1,300 titles was made and the galley proofs were sent to a few librarians and to a few specialists along economic, educational and sociological lines, for criticism and suggestion.

Acknowledgments. Among the many librarians who gave helpful advice special thanks are due to Mr. John Boynton Kaiser and Miss Mary E. Lytle of the Tacoma (Wash.) Public Library, Miss Louise Hinsdale of the East Orange (N. J.) Public Library, Miss Mary L. Jones of the Los Angeles County Free Library, Miss Lucy E. Fay of the Library of the University of Tennessee, and Mr. John Cotton Dana of the Newark (N. J.) Free Public Library. The compiler also acknowledges her indebtedness to Miss Phelps of the Education section of the New York State Library, who checked up the books on Education from the standpoint of their practical use, and to the library of the Russell Sage Foundation, which offered suggestions of much value. Generous help was also given by the following men and women, in order to perfect the selection along the lines of their special subjects: in Education, Professor Paul Monroe, of Columbia University; in Insurance, Mr. Herbert B. Dow of the New England Mutual Life Insurance Company; in Socialism, Mr. Harry W. Laidler of the Intercollegiate Socialist Society, and Mr. Leon M. Solis-Cohen; on the Negro, Miss Mary White-Ovington, of the National Association for the Improvement of Colored People; in various branches of economic, political and social science, Professor H. P. Fairchild, recently of Yale University, Professor J. A. Fairlie, of the University of Illinois, Dr. C. C. Williamson, of the Committee on Study of Methods of Americanization, and Dr. Charles A. Beard, Director of the Bureau of Municipal Research, New York City.

The final decision as to the inclusion or exclusion of any title has necessarily been made by the editor in accordance with the weight of evidence. Inasmuch as the selection has been made in this manner, the cooperators should not be held individually responsible for the result.

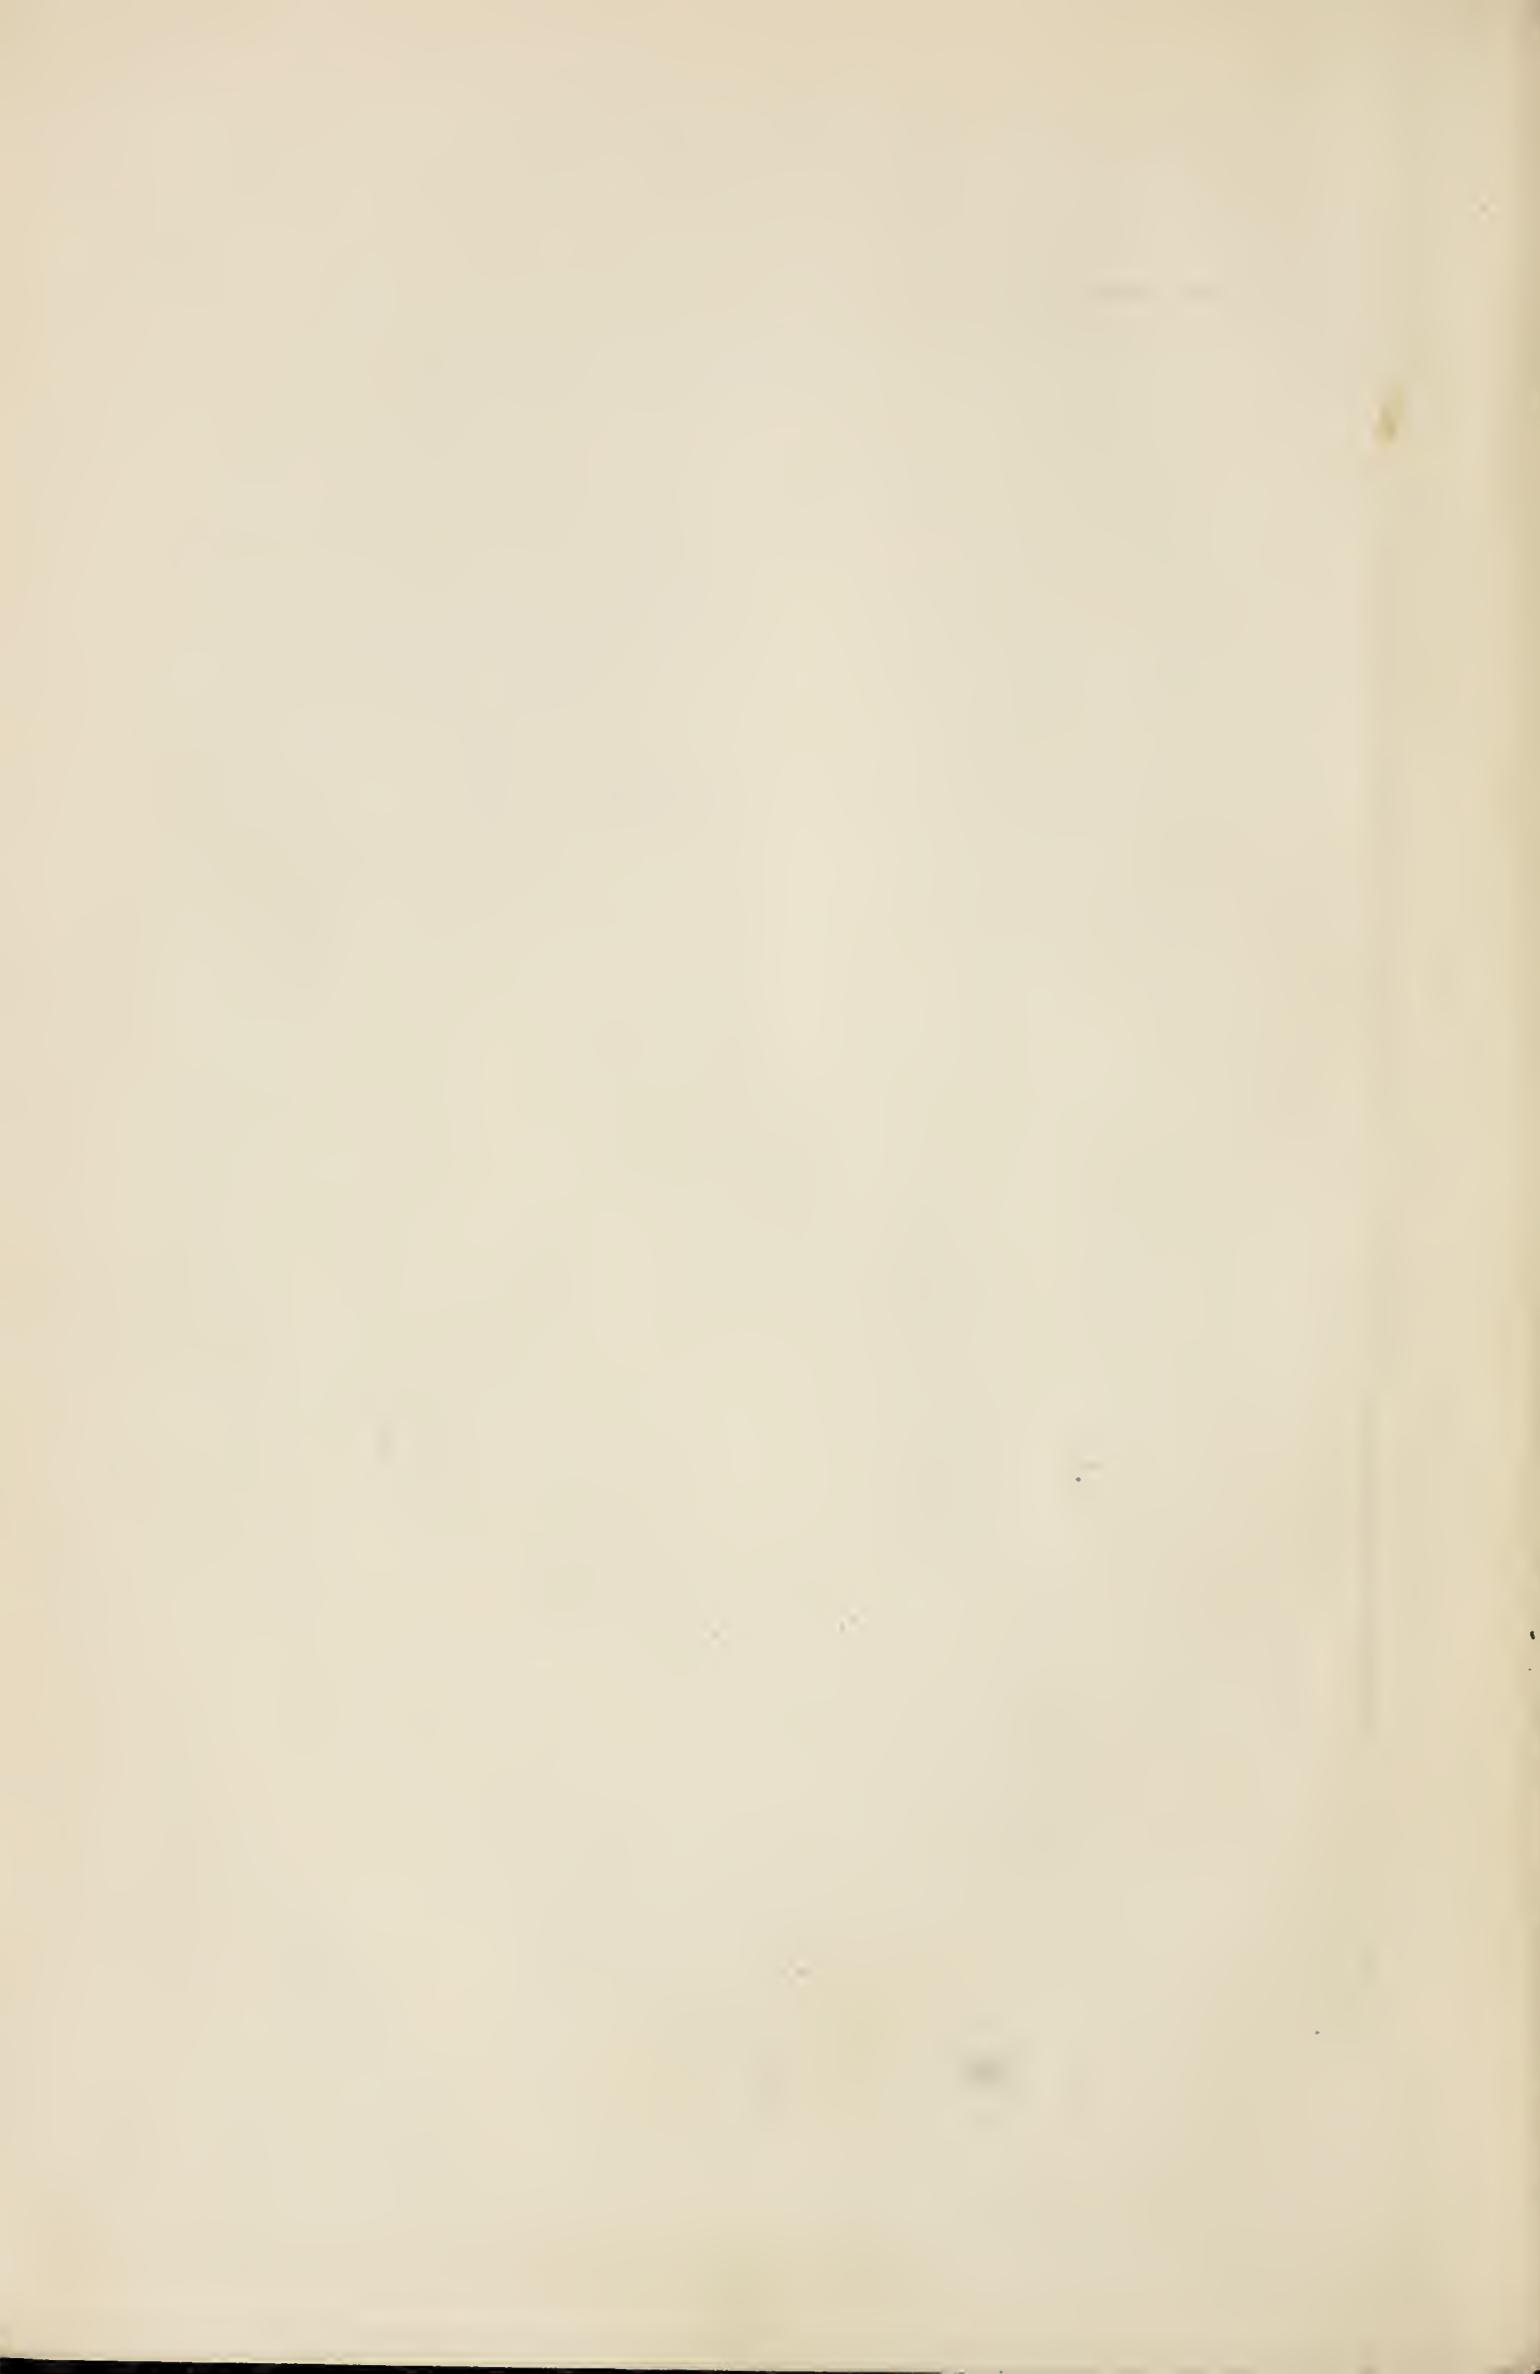

Data given. The attempt has been made to enter authors under the more familiar forms of their names. For instance, Norman Angell is listed as Angell, the surname used on the title pages of his books, instead of under Lane. Pretty full titles have been given, followed by number of volumes when more than one, edition, illustrations (when important), maps, date (latest copyright date being given when easily ascertainable), publisher and price. The prices have been taken in the main from the Publisher's Trade List Annual of 1917, tho a few prices are of more recent date. Series notes have been given when important. Only two or three out-of-print books have knowingly been listed and these are plainly marked. Almost every title is annotated. A large number of these notes have been taken from library bulletins, the Booklist, the Book Review Digest, and other of the sources used in selection. Mr. G. B. Utley has kindly permitted the use of a number of notes from the A. L. A. Catalog and Supplement. Class numbers have been given after each entry, because the same linotype slugs will be used later in the dictionary catalog. A few books not classifying in the 300s have been included because of their close connection with the subjects covered. International relations, 341.6, is followed by 172.4, the ethical side of war and peace. Education includes 650, Commercial education, and 174, Vocational guidance.

Selection. The selection has been made more especially for the smaller libraries, but with both the small and large library in mind, some titles being listed here that will probably be dropped from the 5,000 volume dictionary catalog. Scholarly and expensive books have sometimes been included in a note at the head of a section. Biographies which are of interest in connection with a given section have been occasionally so noted as well. Some valuable books have been omitted because they are not ordinarily called for in a library of from 5,000 to 10,000 volumes. Many books of value two years ago have been omitted because the great changes due to the world war have either greatly lessened or destroyed their value. A few critical librarians will perhaps note the omission of some "books that no gentleman's library should be without." Others will note the inclusion of titles in their opinion too expensive or too "highbrow" for the smaller libraries. The compiler has tried to list not the ideally best books without regard to expense, availability or limitation of interest to a few scholars, but the best books that the average intelligent frequenter of our public libraries will actually read or study. In so doing she has assumed that the general level of intelligence is rising, and that a greater number of people than before the war, including our new women voters, are interested in serious subjects. Few pamphlets, bibliographies, government documents or expensive reference books have been included in these advance sheets. Practically no juveniles except a few books of fairy tales and folklore, equally interesting to adults, have been included.

Uses. It is hoped that this Standard Catalog will be of use to librarians as a buying list, in reference work, and as a recommended list of the best reading for users of our public libraries; also that it will meet the demand of the reader for a printed catalog that he may take home.

Bagehot, Walter

Physics and politics; or, Thoughts on the application of the principles of natural selection and inheritance to political society. (International science ser.) '02 Appleton $1.60 301

Blackmar, Frank Wilson, and Gillin, John Lewis

Outlines of sociology. (Social science textbooks) 11 maps '15 Macmillan $2.25 301

"A thorough revision of 'Elements of sociology,' published in 1905 (Macmillan, $1.25), a book comprehensive in scope and written in a simple, direct manner. 'The chief merit of the book from the theoretical side is that it gives an intelligent statement of the viewpoints of all the leading sociological writers. The chief merit from the practical side is that it touches upon a variety of vital and interesting problems in such a way as to tempt the student to go forward and specialize.' " Am. j. soc., 11:422. New material has been added through out specially on the family and its disorganization, social control, and poverty." A. L. A. bkl.

Chapin, Francis Stuart

Introduction to the study of social evolution. 11 maps '13 Century $2 301

"Readable, elementary summary of the most generally accepted evidence and theory of social evolution. Lists of supplementary readings are given at the end of each chapter." Cleveland

"No other single elementary work covers the same field. The material has been carefully collected." A. L. A. bkl.

Conway, Sir William Martin

The crowd in peace and war. '15 Longmans $1.75 301

"From a more or less individualistic standpoint, the author discusses the nature of crowds, crowd leaders, the conflict between individual freedom and political or crowd liberty, the relation of the crowd to education, morals and religion and the value of crowd organization in social progress. The chapters on 'War, its cause and cure,' 'The contest of ideals'; 'The crowd at war' and 'The just mean,' are of especial timeliness. A valuable work written in crisp, epigrammatic style and full of vivid illustrations." Cleveland

Cooley, Charles Horton

Social organization; a study of the larger mind. '09 Scribner $1.50 301

"Systematic exposition of the development and influence of the intercourse of man and its effect on his conduct and activities, moral and material. A work of admirable ideals and temper." A. L. A. sup.

Davis, George Reginald

Social environment. (National social science ser.) 11 maps '17 McClurg 60c 301

"Author takes the . . . view that character, in its social aspects at least, is mainly the result of environmental influences." Dial 63:72

"Pointing out that the biological point of view, with its concept of struggle and natural selection, has led to extreme individualism; conflict and war, he champions the new sociology which will give dominance to the spiritual forces that make for cooperation and world peace." Ann. Am. acad. 73:245

Ellwood, Charles Abram

Introduction to social psychology. '17 Appleton $2 301

Select references at the end of each chapter. "In general, it is a simplification and systematization of the theories presented in . . . 'Sociology in its psychological aspects,' but statements have been brought down to date, a new phrasing has been adopted and new points of view have been developed. The general point of view . . . however, remains the same . . . namely, that the explanation of social phenomena is to be sought in the underlying traits and dispositions of the individual, in the influences of the environment which act on his plastic nature, and in the resultant aims and standards which he develops." (Preface) Pittsburgh

"Well fitted for the needs of the student in the social sciences who wishes a broad outlook upon this field." W. B. Bailey in Am. pol. sci. 1 N '17 p 11

The social problem; a constructive analysis. (Citizen's lib. of economics, politics and sociology—new ser.) '15 Macmillan $1.25 301

"Clear, stimulating discussion for thinking readers, of what the author defines as 'the problem of human living together.' Considers its historical, physical, biological, economic, and ideal elements, offering suggestions for solution by educational rather than revolutionary methods." N. Y. state lib.

Sociology and modern social problems, rev ed '13 Am. bk. $1 301

First issued in 1910. Author has incorporated the 1910 census figures and has added two chapters, the bearing of modern psychology on social problems and theoretical summary. The last is a brief sketch of the origin and nature of society, theories of progress, etc. The original volume has been widely used as a text book for study classes and the revision will make it more valuable for that purpose." Ann. Am. acad. 53:310

Fairchild, Henry Pratt

Outline of applied sociology. '16 Macmillan $1.75 301

Contents: Introduction; Economic life; Growth of population; Esthetic life; Intellectual and spiritual life; Conclusion. References, p333-7; Supplementary readings, p339-43

"A fresh and independent treatment developed in a scholarly yet popular way, and suggestive to students in connection with other books on the subject, though the theoretical background, to some critics, seems quite inadequate." A. L. A. bkl.

Giddings, Franklin Henry

Elements of sociology; a textbook for colleges and schools. '98 Macmillan $1.25 301

"Good introduction to his more comprehensive works." (Wisconsin) A. L. A.

Principles of sociology; an analysis of the phenomena of association and of social organization. 3d ed '96 Macmillan $3 301

STANDARD CATALOG

Hayes, Edward Cary

Introduction to the study of sociology. '15 Appleton $2.50 301

"A comprehensive, elementary treatment planned for the use of general readers who do not intend to make a thorough study of the field and as an outline of the entire subject for those who do. . . Treats the subject a little more theoretically than Blackmar." A. L. A. bkl.

Keller, Albert Galloway

Societal evolution; a study of the evolutionary basis of the science of society. '15 Macmillan $1.50 301

"Professor Keller's thesis is that societal evolution is a continuation of organic evolution and may be accounted for by the same four biological causes: variation, selection, transmission and adaptation. His theories are an outgrowth of those of William Graham Sumner as expounded in his Folk-ways." Cleveland

Kidd, Benjamin

Science of power. '18 Putnam $1.50 301

"His altruism is really a higher Prussianism. While he deplores in modern militarism the conscription of the body, he himself is proposing the conscription of the soul. He has ignored personality, as social reformers so often do." (The Times [London] Bk. rev. digest "The world has been ruled by the fighting male, following the principles of force; this is wrong. It will and must in future be ruled by the emotion of the ideal, which is right. Since women possess this emotion in a higher degree than men, and are predominantly moved by the long-range emotions, it is to women that Power will belong in the new age just opening out. The whole trend of civilization can be changed in a single generation, by a dominant ideal; hence education of the young is all-important. This is perhaps not an unfair summary of a rather striking book." Athenaeum, May 1918

Social evolution. New rev ed '15 Macmillan $1.50 301

"Believes laws determining progress primarily religious rather than intellectual. Discusses probable development during 20th century." (N. Y. state lib.) A. L. A.

"First appeared in 1894, and has played an important part in the thought of the past 20 years. It is still a book to be reckoned with, though time has altered considerably its value as a work of political science, and has caused its author to adopt a modified view with respect to the ethical development of the race, which he has incorporated in a later work, 'Principles of Western civilization.'" Springfield republican, 1915

Kirkpatrick, Edwin Asbury

Fundamentals of sociology. '16 Houghton $1.35 301

Bibliography, p277-88

"A very simple survey of the field of sociology for the use of teachers and normal students. Discusses the fundamental and present day needs and activities of the social group, economic, protective, recreative, cultural and specially educational." Cleveland

Kropotkin, Petr Aleksieevich

Mutual aid a factor of evolution. '17 Knopf $1.25 301

Articles first published in Nineteenth century.

"Maintains that mutual aid rather than contest is the important factor in progressive evolution of man and animals. Sociologic rather than biologic." N. Y. state lib.

Le Bon, Gustave

The crowd; a study of the popular mind. 7th ed '03 Macmillan $1.75 301

"Translation of 'Psychologie des foules,' 1895. An analysis of psychologic phenomena displayed by men acting in the mass." (N.Y. state lib.) A. L. A.

Maciver, R. L.

Community; a sociological study. '17 Macmillan $3.75 301

"The greater portion of the work is concerned with what seem to the author to be the fundamental laws of social development." Preface

"Written with a thorough knowledge of the best work in modern psychology and philosophy." Athenaeum My '17 p235

"One of the most important [books] in the field of sociology published during the present decade." Am. econ. rev. Sept. '17 p598

Nasmyth, George William

Social progress and the Darwinian-theory; a study of force as a factor in human relations, with an introduction by Norman Angell. '16 Putnam $1.50 301

"A work in three parts, discussing, The philosophy of force, Mutual aid as a factor in social progress; Justice as a prime social need. The prime object of the book was to interpret Novikov's theories on the application of Darwinism to social problems, but since the outbreak of the war, its character has altered so that its present special purpose is to disprove that force, in eliminating the socially unfit, is an aid to human progress, and that a philosophy of force is an implication of the Darwinian theory." Cleveland

Nearing, Scott

Social sanity, a preface to the book of social progress. '13 Moffat $1.25 301

"Social sanity is conceived as involving equality of opportunity, social justice, the conservation of life and health. The treatment is forceful and suggestive rather than original or profound, is unsensational, popular, even colloquial at times." A. L. A. bkl.

Ross, Edward Alsworth

Foundations of sociology. (Citizen's lib. of economics, politics and sociology) '05 Macmillan $1.25 301

"Clear and comprehensive. 'One of the most effective path-breakers in sociological inquiry.'" (Amer. jour. soc.) A. L. A. sup.

Social control; a survey of the foundations of order. (Citizen's lib. of economics, politics and sociology) '01 Macmillan $1.25 301

"Partial list of authorities, p 443-8." "Pt. 1, Grounds of control: sympathy, sociability, justice; pt. 2, Means of control: public opinion, law, belief, social suggestion (including education and custom), social religion, personal ideals, ceremony, art, etc. pt. 3, System of control."

Social psychology; an outline and source book. '08 Macmillan $1.50 301

"An able marshaling of the knowledge thus far brought to light on the subject of social psychology, and a clear, untechnical, while at the same time often eloquent, discussion of the laws, principles and leading truths of that rather subtle and recondite branch of sociology." (Science '08.) Pittsburgh

Shaler, Nathaniel Southgate

The neighbor; the natural history of human contacts. '04 Houghton $1.40 301

Spencer, Herbert

Principles of sociology. 3v 1877-97 Appleton $6.75 301

Contents: v 1, Data of sociology, Inductions of sociology; Domestic relations; v 2, Ceremonial institutions, Political institutions; v 3, Ecclesiastical institutions, Professional institutions, Industrial institutions.

Spencer, Herbert—Continued

Study of sociology. 6th ed '08 Appleton $1.75 301

"Explains scope of the science, its utility and method, and gives some of its more important general principles." A. L. A.

Sumner, William Graham

Folkways; a study of the sociological importance of usages, manners, customs, mores and morals. '07 Ginn $3.60 school ed $3 301

"List of books cited," p655-70.

"Folkways the author defines as 'ways of doing things' which are gradually recognized as expedient and develop into established customs. Their origins are lost in mystery, but they are always and everywhere a controlling social force, regulating in every detail the life of uncivilized races and hardly less potent in the life of civilized peoples. With great labor Professor Sumner has assembled a mass of materials, gathered from almost all accessible sources, and with rare insight and scientific caution has sought to elicit their meaning. The result is an important contribution to the scientific study of society. (Condensed from Nation, 1908.) Pittsburgh

Tarde, Gabriel

Social laws; an outline of sociology; tr. by H. C. Warren. '99 Macmillan $1.25 301

"Author's own résumé and unification of his three principal works on general sociology: 'Les lois de l'imitation,' 'L'opposition universelle,' and 'La logique sociale.' Excellent translation." N. Y. state lib.

A translation of his "Laws of imitation" by Elsie Clews Parsons is published by Holt at $3.50

Todd, Arthur James

Theories of social progress; a critical study of the attempts to formulate the conditions of human advance. '18 Macmillan $2.25 301

Bibliography and supplemental readings, p549-74

"An interesting discussion of economic, militarist, eugenic, institutional, and ideological theories of social progress, with conclusions of the author who is professor of sociology, University of Minnesota." Cleveland

Trotter, W.

Instincts of the herd in peace and war. '16 Macmillan $1.25 301

"Mr. Trotter argues that gregariousness is an instinct as powerful and primitive as the sexual, the nutritive and the self-preserving, and that there are times in the life of a people, especially if war exists, when gregariousness masters or at least distorts every other impulse. In 1908 and 1909 Mr. Trotter published his articles in the Sociological review. There are now reprinted and immensely enriched by contract with those later developments of abnormal psychology which are due to Professor Freud. What Freud calls the censor, Trotter calls gregariousness or herd instinct." (Adapted from the New Republic.) Cleveland

Weber, Thorstein

Theory of the leisure class; an economic study in the evolution of institutions. '99 Macmillan $2 301

"An academic, subtle and acute phrasing of what the working men are saying in every shop and Sunday trades council." (Dial 28:438) A. L. A.

Wallace, Alfred Russell

Social environment and moral progress. '13 Cassell $1.25 301

"The main contention of the first half of the book is that there has been no perceptible advance in morality through the ages and that the present social structure is radically wrong.

The second part deals almost wholly with the workings of the evolutionary law in particular reference to social progress, and maintains that progress may be achieved in the future through natural selection." Pittsburgh.

Wallas, Graham

The great society; a psychological analysis. '14 Macmillan $2 301

"A brief review of the subject matter and terminology of social psychology, together with chapters on the applications of this comparatively new science to the problems of present-day civilization." Cleveland

Ward, Lester Frank

Applied sociology: a treatise on the conscious improvement of society by society. inaps '06 Ginn $3 school ed $2.50 301

"A scholarly, scientific theory of progress. Companion volume to the author's 'Pure sociology,' Macmillan $4." A. L. A. sup.

Pure sociology: a treatise on the origin and spontaneous development of society. '03 Macmillan $4 301

"It will be a long time before a more important contribution to social self-knowledge appears between the covers of a single book." (Am. jour. soc., 1913) Pittsburgh

303 CyclopediasBliss, William Dwight Porter, and Binder, R. M.

New encyclopedia of social reform. new ed '08 Funk $7.50 303

"A useful popular work, intended for the general reader, not for the special student. Principal articles are by specialists and are signed, short articles are unsigned. Bibliographies are brief and refer principally to works in English. Contains many biographical sketches, including some of living men." Mudge

304 Essays. AddressesAddams, Jane

Democracy and social ethics. (Citizens lib. of economics, politics and sociology) '02 Macmillan $1.25 304

Carver, Thomas Nixon

Essays in social justice. '15 Harvard univ. press $2 304

"Original both in its manner of treatment and in the emphasis which it places on economic factors. The writer believes that the 'sentimental morality' motive has been over-worked, and dwells on the need of a strong state in adjusting the various conflicting social interests." A. L. A. bkl.

Clark, John Bates

Social justice without socialism. (Barbara Weinstock lectures on the morals of trade) '14 Houghton 50c 304

"Published in England under the title 'Principles of social reconstruction.'

"Opposed to the impulses which make for war are the forces of love, the instinct of constructiveness, and the joy of life. As the author sees it, all three are checked and enfeebled at present by institutions which rest upon injustice and authority. Under better social conditions 'the impulse life of men would become wholly different, and the human race might travel towards a new happiness and a new vigor.' Pittsburgh

Strong, Josiah

Our world. '13 Doubleday $1 pa 50c 304

"Discusses with acuteness and vision the development of the new world-life and analyzes the problems which have grown out of it—the problem of industry, of wealth, of the individual and society, of lawlessness and legislation, the new race problem and the problem of the city. Broader in scope than 'Our country.'" A. L. A.

Sumner, William Graham

War and other essays; ed. with introd. by Albert Galloway Keller. '11 Yale univ. press $2.50 304

"Seventeen essays originally printed in periodicals, 1881-1909, intrinsically interesting, and valuable as showing the progress of social and political thought while the author was professor of political and social science in Yale college (1872-1909). . . . The editor writes an appreciative sketch of Professor Sumner (26 p.) and a bibliography of his published works (64 titles) is appended." A. L. A. bkl.

"The title essay is a clear, incisive, level-headed examination into the rôle which war has played in the development of civilization and the advancement of the human race." (Nation) Book rev. digest

Other volumes of Sumner's papers edited by Keller are: "Challenge of facts and other essays," "Earth-hunger and other essays."

Published also in the Everyman's library edition by Dutton at 50c; library binding 60c

Burns, Cecil Delisle

Morality of nations. '16 Putnam $1.50 320

"Because the author, an Englishman, believes that new ideas are needed to control the new political situation both in domestic and in foreign issues, he furnishes a criticism of inherited conceptions of the State, a review of the present moral relationship between States, and an indication of the tendencies which are transforming the whole of international politics." A. L. A. bkl.

"The verdict of the English Outlook is that constructively the book is far ahead of the times, 'as an analysis of existing international morality it deserves the consideration of all students of foreign politics.' Cleveland

Davis, Henry William Carless

Political thought of Heinrich von Treitschke. '15 Scribner $2 320

"An able survey of the political writings and opinions of the German philosopher, by a fellow at Oxford. Largely a compilation of translated sections from all of Treitschke's chief writings, interpreted against the events of his life and in relation to the changes of his own political thought." A. L. A. bkl.

Dealey, James Quayle

Development of the state, its governmental organization and its activities. '09 Silver $1.50 320

"A good elementary outline of political development from savagery, elaborating the principles underlying the modern state and its activities." A. L. A. sup.

Garner, James Wilford

Introduction to political science. '10 Am. bk. $2.50 320

"Excellent and clear, though not exhaustive discussion of the more important theories concerning the origin, nature, functions and organization of the state, with analyses and criticisms. Special emphasis is given to American phases and developments." A. L. A. sup.

Gettell, Raymond Garfield

Introduction to political science. '10 Ginn $2 320

"A good basis for a wider study of political science, and, best of all, it written in a clear, forceful style." K: F. Geiser in School rev. 21:428

An excellent book to use in connection with the above is the author's "Readings in political science," 1911, Ginn, $2.25

Hill, David Jayne

People's government. '15 Appleton $1.35 320

"Useful as a summary of the whole field, to supplement standard works like Garner's and Wilson's." Wis. bul.

"Traces the development of the State from its beginning as an embodiment of force through the period when it was dominated by law regarded as a sovereign decree, till the time when in some parts of the world at least the idea has been superseded by law as mutual obligation. Simple and as direct in treatment as the nature of the subject will permit." North Am. rev. 202:500

Holt, Lucius Hudson

Introduction to the study of government. '15 Macmillan $2 320

"A combination text and source book, written by a professor at the United States military academy for his classes, stating the nature, organization, and operation of government as it exists in the foremost states of the world. The source material follows each chapter under the heading 'Statistics and illustrative citations.' Better written than most elementary texts, it differs also in its strict adherence to the comparative method, contrasting American conditions with those elsewhere. Appendix contains the constitutional laws of France, the constitutions of Germany and the United States." A. L. A. bkl.

Lecky, William Edward Hartpole

Democracy and liberty. new ed 2v '99 Longmans $5 320

"Special chapter devoted to adverse criticism of socialism, and criticisms of socialistic tendencies throughout the work." A. L. A.

Oppenheimer, Franz

The state; tr. by J. M. Gitterman. '14 Bobbs $1.50 320

"A study of the origin and development of the state from the sociological and economic viewpoint. . . . The economic interpretation of history is emphasized throughout. While decidedly one-sided in its neglect of all factors save force in state origin and of all influences save the economic in state development, the book is a brilliant study of certain important phases of political evolution. . . . The translation is unusually well done." Ann. Am. acad. 54:340

Tagore, Rabindranath

Nationalism. '17 Macmillan $1.25 320

"Three lectures: Nationalism in the West; Nationalism in Japan; Nationalism in India; and a poem, 'The sunset of the century.' The book is an ingenuous denunciation of nationalism, particularly British nationalism as seen in British domination of India. The author's definition of a nation is an organized power which keeps up its insistence that the population become strong and efficient. But this strenuous effort after strength diverts man's power of sacrifice from his ultimate object, which is moral, to the maintenance of the nation, which is mechanical." Pittsburgh

The Negro's progress in fifty years. (Annals of the Amer. Acad.) '13 Am. Acad. cl $1.50 pa $1 326

Contents: Pt. 1, Statistical; pt. 2, Business activities and labor conditions; pt. 3, Social conditions and problems; pt. 4, Educational progress and need.

"Booker T. Washington, W. E. B. Du Bois, Ray Stannard Baker, W. D. Weatherford and many other well known students of Negro problems and educators have contributed these twenty-four papers which touch on almost all phases of the subject." A. L. A. bkl

Brawley, Benjamin Griffith

Short history of the American Negro. '13 Macmillan $1.25 326

"A popular general survey of the history and position of the Negro in American life, considered topically under slavery, emancipation, the Negro church, disenfranchisement, cultural achievements, etc., with special attention to education since the Civil war. An impartial and informing work for the general reader. Bibliography (5½p)." A. L. A. bkl.

Your Negro neighbor. '18 Macmillan 60c 326

Contents: Your negro neighbor; Negro in America: historical review; Negro as an industrial factor; Lynching; Aspects of Negro education; A great missionary; Joanna P. Moore; Some critics and their fallacies; Promise of the negro; Plea for a moralist

Du Bois, William Edward Burghardt

The Negro. (Home univ. lib. of modern knowledge) 11 maps '15 Holt 60c 326

"Simply written, brief, sympathetic history of the Negro race, unusual because mainly devoted to life and civilization in Africa, but considering also the Negro in the West Indies and Latin America, the slave trade, and history and problems in the United States. Maps, bibliography, index." N. Y. state lib.

Souls of black folk; essays and sketches. 10th ed McClurg $1.25 326

"Profoundly interesting and affecting; remarkable as a piece of literature apart from its inner significance." (Nation, 76:481) A. L. A.

Hammond, Mrs. Lily (Hardy)

In black and white. 11 '14 Revell $1.25 326

"A book by a southerner which deals with the race problem in a spirit of broad humanity and with intimate knowledge of working-class conditions. She asserts that the Negro problem is primarily a poverty problem and deals therefore with poverty among the Negroes and its amelioration—with health, housing, delinquency, civil rights." (Condensed from the Survey) Cleveland

Hart, Albert Bushnell

The southern South. map '10 Appleton $1.60 326

"Impartial consideration of southern conditions and problems, indorsing separation of the black and white races." A. L. A. sup.

Miller, Kelly

An appeal to conscience; America's code of caste a disgrace to democracy. '18 Macmillan 60c 326

"An eloquent appeal for justice to the negro by one of his own race. There are five brief chapters: Race contact; Lawlessness; Segregation; Negro patriotism and devotion; and Righteousness. The appeal of the author is for national redress. The crime against the Negro is shown to be national in scope. Slowly and insidiously the miasma of race prejudice is spreading. Lynching is no longer an exclusively southern institution, nor is the Negro its only helpless victim. The nation must destroy lawlessness or lawlessness will destroy the nation.' In the chapter on Negro patriotism and devotion the author pleads for the recognition of those qualities of loyalty and altruism which are the Negro's supreme gifts. The final chapter is an appeal to moral principle in the interest of both races." Book rev. digest

Out of the house of bondage. '14 Neale $1.65 326

"Twelve clearly written, informing and temperate essays on the progress, the present standing and the future of the colored race, by the Dean of Howard University, himself a Negro. 'Miller stands between the radicalism of Du Bois and the opportunism of Booker Washington.'" Cleveland

"Professor Miller's works place him in the small group of foremost colored writers of which the other two are Booker Washington and Du Bois. . . . It would be difficult to find elsewhere so compact and judicial a story of the Negro's rise from slavery as is contained in the essay which gives this volume its title." (O. G. Villard, in Nation 99:738) Book rev. digest

Negro year book; an annual encyclopedia of the Negro, 1916-17; ed. by Monroe N. Work. '17 Negro year bk. pub. co., Tuskegee, Ala. pa 35c 326

"This is the fourth annual issue of this year book. . . . All the old matter has been re-written and about 100 pages of new material has been included; 75 pages are devoted to a review of the events of 1914-1915 as they affect the interests and indicate the progress of the race." A valuable feature of the work is a bibliography of 38 pages." Book rev. digest

Ovington, Mary White

Half a man; the status of the Negro in New York. '11 Longmans $1 326

"Describes condition of the Negro in Manhattan, where he is only 'half a man.' A frank, discriminating, yet warmly sympathetic study." A. L. A. sup.

A study of the Negro in Boston, "In freedom's birthplace," by John Daniels, was published by Houghton in 1914 at $1.50.

See also DuBois' "The Philadelphia Negro," published by the University of Pennsylvania, at $2.50, paper $2; and Haynes' "The Negro at work in New York," published by Longmans at $1.75, paper $1.25

327 Foreign relations

Naumann's "Central Europe," 1917, Knopf, $3, classified in History, will be found of value in connection with some of the books in this section. The line between the Dewey class number for Foreign relations and that for History is a hard one to draw. Many books here classified in 327 will doubtless be classified in History by some libraries

A book of reminiscences which covers an important period of recent diplomatic history, (1876-1906), is Sir Thomas Barclay's "Thirty years, Anglo-French reminiscences," 1914, Houghton, $3.50.

Bernhardi, Friedrich Adam Julius von
Germany and the next war; tr. by A. H. Powles. authorized ed '14 Longmans 50c 327

"Candid expression of the German purpose to predominate. . . . General Bernhardi does not merely produce a book in praise of war; he deliberately advocates not only preparation for war, but also war itself. He writes from the standpoint of one who thinks that aspirations for peace threaten to poison the soil upon which the German people live." (Review of reviews, 1914.) Pittsburgh

A work by a much read German writer on economics, which strikes a different note from Bernhardi and Treitschke, is Rohrbach's German world policies, 1915, Macmillan, $1.35

Chéradame, André

Pangerman plot unmasked. 11 maps $1.25 327

"M. Chéradame had studied German policy for 22 years before writing this book and had frequently warned Europe of the German danger. He writes to demonstrate that 'the Pangerman plot is the only cause of the war' and to show that the acceptance of a peace offered by Germany on the principle of the 'drawn game' would merely be an aid to her in renewing her plans for Pangermanism in the near future." Pittsburgh

The author's "United States and Pangermania," 1918, Scribner, $1, contains much of the same material.

Cramb, John Adam

Germany and England. '14 Dutton $1 327

"A series of lectures delivered by the late Prof. Cramb at Queen's college, London, in which he interprets the militaristic and imperialistic philosophy of Treitschke and Bernhardi as embodying the true idea of Germany's 'Weltpolitik' and makes an impassioned plea to England for preparedness for inevitable war." Cleveland

"Contains one lecture on the influence of the doctrines of Treitschke on the modern German spirit." Pittsburgh

Dillingham published in 1915, at 50c, Bernhardi's "Germany and England," which is in part an answer to Cramb.

Dickinson, Goldsworthy Lowes

The European anarchy. '16 Macmillan $1 327

"Maintains . . . that the present war cannot be laid at the door of any one state, but to 'a condition of internal disorder that all great modern states, caring for power and wealth have permitted to exist.' . . . The conclusions emphasize the need of an adequate body of international law, supported by armed force." (A. L. A. bkl.) Pratt quarterly

Hill, David Jayne

Rebuilding of Europe; a survey of forces and conditions. '17 Century $1.50 327

"An illuminating and forceful presentation of the war, regarded as a revolution against economic imperialism. The author served the United States as Minister to Switzerland, 1903-05, and to the Netherlands, 1905-07, and as Ambassador to Germany, 1908-11. Five of the eight chapters were printed in the Century May to October, 1917." Cleveland

Jastrow, Morris, jr.

The War and the Bagdad railway. '17 Lippincott $1.50 327

"Discusses briefly the part played by the East in the war, giving a survey of Asia Minor from earliest times to the present and showing how important its control has been and is to the various nations. Relates the various concessions and diplomatic operations which accompanied the building of the Bagdad railway and tells what changes we may expect in the East as a result of the war. Bibliographical notes (8p)" A. L. A. bkl.

Kawakami, Karl Kiyoshi

Japan in world politics. '17 Macmillan $1.50 327

"The author's sympathies are with Japan in American-Japanese questions, though his presentation of his views is reasonable and sane. He feels that the Monroe doctrine is unjust to small overcrowded nations and that unhindered immigration is necessary for a permanent peace. He attempts to justify Japan in China and Korea and to allay suspicion of German-Japanese relations. Most of the chapters have already appeared in various American magazines." A. L. A. bkl.

The author's "American-Japanese relations," was published in 1912 by Revell at $2.

Lippmann, Walter

Stakes of diplomacy. '15 Holt $1.35

327

"From the point of view of an anti-imperialist, the author, analysing patriotism and pointing out the relation between patriotism, business and diplomacy, proposes an international protectorate formed to protect backward countries from exploitation and to organize them for commerce." Cleveland

Powers, Harry Huntington

Things men fight for. maps '16 Macmillan $1.50

327

"The European situation viewed from the standpoint of national patriotism which the author states is at the root of the whole matter. Two introductory chapters show what men of today are like and discuss the tangible and intangible interests that they fight for: on the one hand independence, territory and commerce; on the other, race unity, nationality, civilization and peace. The rest of the discussion turns from abstract principles to concrete problems and observes how these principles work out in the case of problems facing European peoples to-day. A chapter on 'Proposed remedies for war,' and 'The future of war' conclude the discussions." Book rev. digest

Schmitt, Bernadotte Everly

England and Germany, 1740-1914. maps '16 Princeton univ. $2

327

"An historical review of the development of the German Empire and the conflict of commercial, naval, and imperialistic aims and policies which strained Anglo-German diplomatic relations, notably since 1870, and prepared the ground for the present war. As Rhodes scholar at Oxford, Dr. Schmitt became interested in diplomatic history of this period, and the material for the study was largely gathered and the book partly written before the outbreak of the war; the various 'books' of diplomatic dispatches of the belligerent governments, and a limited account of other war material have also been considered. . . . The candor and excellent temper of the work and its vivid concrete style, constitute it a permanent contribution to the literature of the war rather than a propagandist document. Dr. Schmitt is assistant professor of history at Western Reserve University."

Usher, Roland Greene

Pan-Germanism, from its inception to the outbreaks of the war. '13 Houghton $1.75

"Bibliography, p. 311-14.

"The author is of those who believe it is Germany's intention to dominate Europe and the world. His book is an attempt to describe the progress already made [up to the date of writing] toward the realization of that ambition." Pittsburgh

Followed by the author's "Pan-Americanism; a forecast of the inevitable clash between the United States and Europe's victor," 1915, Century, $2, and his "Challenge of the future, a study in American foreign policy," 1916, Houghton, $1.75. These books abound in assumptions and conflicting hypotheses, together with no very firm grasp of underlying facts. They are included only because of the interest they have excited.

Beer, George Louis

English-speaking peoples. '17 Macmillan $1.50

327.73

"An earnest appeal for solidarity during the war and for a permanent and closely knit democratic alliance of all English-speaking peoples after its close, to the end of realizing Anglo-American ideals. The writer points out the economic possibilities in cooperation and the community of interests in the Far East and Latin America." Cleveland

Chéradame, André

United States and Pan-Germania. '18 Scribner $1

327.73

"Mr. Chéradame continues the work begun in 'The Pan-German plot unmasked' bringing up to date the evidence of the German plans, and their fulfillment. He writes clearly in detail for the average American, and illustrates with many maps and enough statistics to prove his points. Extremely interesting and necessary to any well informed American's understanding of what we have to combat in Germany's aims, with a suggested plan to frustrate them."

The articles which Mr. Chéradame has been writing in the Atlantic monthly are reprinted under the title, 'Pan-Germany, the disease and cure' (Atlantic monthly press, Bost., 60c). They give much the same information not quite so simply, more compactly stated, with only one map." A. L. A. bkl.

Dunning, William Archibald

British empire and the United States; with an introduction by the Rt. Hon. Viscount Bryce. '14 Scribner $2

327.73

"An impartial and authoritative account of international episodes and disputes between 1814 and 1914. Pronounced by the Independent to be much more satisfactory from the standpoint of fullness than 'One hundred years of peace,' Senator Lodge's 'masterly outline of the subject.' " Cleveland

Fish, Carl Russell

American diplomacy. (American historical ser.) maps '15 Holt $2.50

Principles of political economy; abr. with notes, and a sketch of the history of political economy, by J. L. Laughlin. '98 Appleton $4

"No writer before Mill had ever surveyed political economy as a whole with anything like equal ability; no one had shown with the same fulness the relation which different parts of the science bore to each other; still less had any one so well explained the relation of this science to other sciences and to knowledge in general." "A revision of 'Introduction to economics.' The chapter, 'Plans of economic reform,' of the former edition has been replaced by four new chapters: 'Reform of the tax system of the United States'; 'Profit sharing and labor copartnership'; 'Social insurance'; and 'Socialism.' Several of the theoretical chapters have been rewritten, the explanations of the laws of value and distribution recast, and the whole revised to date." A. L. A. bkl.

"Prof. Seager is, we believe, typical of the new economist. His book is intensely practical; he regards economic theory as the connecting link between the history of industry and the tasks confronting the social reformer. Mathematical conceptions scarcely enter into his work." Athenaeum 2:140.

Hoxie's classification of unions for the first time brings out scientifically the great difference in unions, permits one to see the very complex character of the labor problems and warns against those sweeping generalizations that pretend to offer simple solutions. Prices. Cost of living

Clark, Walter Ernest

Cost of living. (National social science ser.) '15 McClurg 60c 338

"Simple, brief explanation of rising prices, their effects and remedies. Traces their cause not to the trusts but to the question of supply and demand and the depleted gold standard. Cost of living. (American books) '15 Doubleday $1 338

"Biographical note, p 5

"Mr. Franklin's book is above reproach as a bit of scientific reasoning. His shrewd sense checks the tendency of the theorist to dogmatize, and insists on a view of the subject from the social and political standpoint. He doubts the efficacy of legislative remedies for changes in the price level, and sees in the European war still another influence making for a rise in prices. Burden of poverty, what to do. (Art of life ser.) '12 Huebsch 50c 339

"This book calls attention to the nature and immensity of the problem of poverty and to its relation to new standards of living; it analyzes the causes of poverty and attempts some constructive suggestions for solution. Interest on capital earned by the owners is sanctioned, but income from inheritance is denounced. Competitive profit is upheld, but profit due to the tariff, monopoly, and special privilege is indicted. Rent of land and unearned increment receive a special arraignment. A social program for the solution of the poverty problem must therefore include the abolition of these evils of distribution, as well as other generally recognized social reforms. Socialism as an indictment is valid, though it has failed in constructive suggestions." Jour. pol. econ. 21:179

Hollander, Jacob Harry

Abolition of poverty. '14 Houghton 75c 339

"There are, the writer holds, three main causes of poverty: (1) underpayment, (2) unemployment, and (3) disability. He proposes to cure them respectively by (1) collective labor-bargaining and possible state-interference for the unskilled, (2) by labor-exchanges, unemployment-insurance and residential decentralization, (3) by social insurance.

“The writer, who is a senator of Belgium, professor of international law and a recipient of the Nobel prize, has termed his volume of 175 pages an essay on evolutionary and constructive pacifism. He contends that institutions already realized or contemplated have in potency the ability to bring about substitution of a state of right for that state of war which men generally consider as natural and necessary in the relation between peoples. . . . For the conference of states the author presents the new idea of combining diplomatic and parliamentary characteristics. He devotes a special chapter to an International council of conciliation.” Boston transcript”

Selected bibliography, p 387-91

"Treats concisely and clearly the commissions of different states, and the work done by city commissions. The chapters on franchise essentials and on the elements of a constructive franchise policy discuss matters with which nearly every small city has to deal, and are of immediate interest and value. Suggestions for model franchises are given. Though showing no lack of unity, the chapters are by different authorities and embody the more important papers presented to the National municipal league since its first meeting in 1894." A. L. Government of American cities. rev ed '16 Macmillan $2 352

"This companion to the author's 'Government of European cities' Macmillan, $2, treats of the framework of government in American cities, the power and duties of the municipal corporation, the different organs of municipal government and their relation to each other. Only one chapter is given to the historical side, and the problems of administration are hardly touched on. In a large measure it replaces the older books in the same field because it is up to date (1912). There are excellent references with notes at the ends of the chapters. 'A treatise of the highest competence and value.' (Amer. hist. rev. 18: 435.)" A. L. A. bkl.

Principles and methods of municipal administration. il '16 Macmillan $2.25 352

"An authoritative work which, in dealing with the functions of city government, supplements the author's earlier work, 'Government of American cities,' which is concerned with its organization of framework. Newer tendencies are outlined in the first chapter; others consider city planning, streets, water supply, sewerage, lighting, police and fire departments, school administration and municipal finance. The work is more scholarly than C. A. Beard's 'American city government,' but on the whole steers a successful course between an elementary and a highly technical treatise." Cleveland

Bagley, William Chandler
Educative process. '05 Macmillan $1.25 370.1
"Applies the biological and psychological principles that underlie the theory and practice of teaching to the topics and problems commonly included under the terms general method, method of the recitation, etc. One of the best contributions of its kind to the literature of educational theory. (Condensed from Educational rev. 1905.)" Pittsburgh

De Garmo, Charles
Interest and education; the doctrine of interest and its concrete application. '02 Macmillan $1 370.1
"Based on belief that education consists, not alone in developing the intellect, but in forming, guiding or repressing the feelings and impulses, and that doctrine of interest applied to education will lead to this larger and deeper culture." (Educ. rev. 26:54) A. L. A.

Dewey, John—Continued

"An elaboration and application of the author's well-known theory of interest which first appeared in the second Herbart society yearbook. The present discussion, besides being somewhat more systematic and clearer than the earlier account, is of additional value in that it shows how the principle of interest applies in various forms of school activity." School rev. 22:497

Freeman, Frank Nugent

How children learn. (Riverside textbooks in education) il '17 Houghton $1.60

370.1

"A valuable study in applied psychology. It concerns itself primarily with a study of the native and acquired responses of children, and the significance of these for educational development and for social control. . . . The book has been prepared for use as a textbook in colleges and normal schools, and for use as a reading-circle book with teachers." El school jour. 18:390

How to use your mind: a psychology of study. '16 Lippincott $1

"A very practical, sensible and interestingly written book on the psychology of study, designed primarily as a textbook in high schools and colleges having courses in methods of study and as an aid to grade teachers in their supervising activities.

Discusses note-taking, brain action during study, formation of study habits, first aid in memory, concentration of attention, how we reason, expression as an aid in learning, mental second wind, etc." Cleveland

McMurtry, Frank Morton

How to study and teaching how to study. '09 Houghton $1.25

371

"A clear and logical analysis of the nature of study, resolving it into eight principal factors and examining each in turn in relation to children. Fuller and of more general application than L. B. Earhart's 'Teaching children to study' (Riverside educational monographs, Houghton, 70c) which covers much the same ground but is supplementary rather than identical, applying especially to elementary schools and giving in some cases concrete examples." N.Y. state lib

Whipple, Guy Montrose

How to study effectively. '16 Public-school 50c

371

"A series of thirty-eight rules and maxims intended for high school or college students. The rules are stated so specifically and illustrated so concretely that they can be easily followed by pupils in the upper grades, and they will be suggestive to elementary teachers as well." A. L. A. bkl.

"The best single statement of the psychology of study that has ever been formulated." El school jour. 17:141

School discipline. '14 Macmillan $1.25

371

"A discussion of discipline emphasizing positive and non-coercive rather than restrictive and repressive methods. Has chapters on the unruled school, rewards and penalties, corporal punishment, and the relation of the psychology of interest and attention to discipline." Cleveland

Morehouse, Frances Milton
Discipline of the school. '14 Heath $1.40
371

Classed bibliography, p305-11
"Similar to Bagley in its purpose and its attitude towards the problems, but different in its approach and more general in its discussion." A. L. A. bkl.

"Written in the scientific spirit, which means that it is founded upon the best present day thought regarding human nature and especially child nature, and temperate and moderate thruout. Shows a fine balance between what might be called the intellectual and emotional attitudes in questions of discipline." (M. V. O'Shea in School rev.) Cleveland

From Locke to Montessori. '14 Holt 371
"The book has unusual value for social workers in that it relates the field of the normal to that of the defective. Taken together, Dr. Montessori's own handbook and the two works of criticism by Kilpatrick and Boyd offer not only the best introduction to this much discussed new system, but also indicate valuable social considerations for workers in various divisions of the field." Fisher, Mrs Dorothea Frances (Canfield)

Montessori mother. il '12 Holt $1.35 371
"Interesting presentation of the Montessori system from the viewpoint of a keen, well educated American mother who studied it in the Casa dei Bambini of the Franciscan nunnery in Rome and who returned to apply it as far as possible in her own home. She describes with some detail the teacher's attitude toward the children and the apparatus used . . . and includes a review of Dr. Montessori's career." A. L. A. bkl

Kilpatrick, William Heard

Montessori system examined. (Riverside educational monographs) '14 Houghton 40c 371

Author is (1914) assistant professor of education at Teachers College, Columbia university.

"He is fully acquainted with the history of pedagogical development and thoroly conversant with the psychological basis of educational theory. He has made a careful study of Dr. Montessori's theory, and of her practice at first hand; and attempts to show wherein these differ from those of the kindergarten, as well as from the pedagogical principles upheld by Professor John Dewey. He presents clearly and concisely the weakness and the strong points of both the new system and the old system of Froebel as it has been developed by his disciples. He gives Dr. Montessori full credit for her scientific aims and for some of her practice, but he does not spare critical judgment when it appears warranted. (Condensed from Nation, 1914)" Pittsburgh

Montessori, Maria

Montessori method; tr. from the Italian by Anne E. George. il '12 Stokes $2
371

"Makes available in English this remarkable educational system which has been so successfully applied by Dr. Montessori in Rome and is (1912) being used experimentally in some American schools. The method here set forth is intended for children from three to six years of age. Its most striking and significant aspects are that it adapts to the education of normal children methods and apparatus originally used for deficient; that it is based on a radical conception of liberty for the pupil; that it entails a thoro training of separate sensory, motor and mental capacities; and that it leads to rapid and easy mastery of the elements of reading, writing and arithmetic." Pittsburgh

Dooley, William Henry

Education of the ne'er-do-well. (Riverside educational monographs) '16 Houghton 70c 371.42

"Concerned with the needs of the child who has no aptitude for literary studies. The author, principal of a technical high school in Fall River, Mass., makes an earnest plea for pre-vocational courses in the grammar school and for continuation schools which shall show a way out for boys and girls who find themselves in 'blind-alley' jobs. Learning to earn; a plea and a plan for vocational education, with an introd. by William C. Redfield. '15 Bobbs $1.50 371.42
"A vigorous and sound statement of the needs for reorganizing the traditional public school system of the country. Stress falls not upon the primary rewards but upon the necessity in a democracy of a genuinely universal education, which will make equality of opportunity a reality for all. The book is altogether the most complete survey of the many phases of the question of industry in education which exists. It even comprises a chapter on the use of libraries for vocational purposes." Davis, Jesse Buttrick
Vocational and moral guidance. '14 Ginn $1.50 174
Contains bibliographies
"In the first place, it outlines methods by which the individual boy or girl may be led to determine his bent. In the second place, Mr. Davis has, we think, made ethics as effective a subject of study as it can be under modern conditions, by combining it with vocational and what he terms 'prevocational' instruction. Finally, he has imparted a new and live interest to the study of English composition; for he has woven his vocational and moral training around the work in English." School rev. 23:353

Education through play. '15 Macmillan $1.25 371.7

"Bibliography at the end of many of the chapters

His thesis is that play is essentially an educational problem and that playgrounds should be under the control of the educational authorities. Considers play in various relations and shows its efficacy as a preventive of crime and disease. Compares the play systems of German, English and American schools. Describes in detail playground design and apparatus." Pittsburgh

Bibliography, p135-37

"Brief, popular and admirably clear survey of the history of the family from the sociological viewpoint and the position of woman from earliest civilization to the present time. Special attention is given to conditions in the United States and methods of reform are suggested." A. L. A. bkl.

Goodsell, Willystine

History of the family as a social and educational institution. (Textbook ser.) '15
Macmillan $2 392

"Describes the family as a social and educational institution from primitive times to the present, devoting the last two chapters to the 'Present situation' and 'Current theories of reform'. As a textbook intended to provide 'canned information' the book is increasingly valuable in proportion to the paucity in library facilities where it is used. . . . Bridging as it does the gap between Westermarck and Howard, and other technical writers on the one hand, and younger minds confused by their infinite detail, it will be useful for undergraduate work in the study of the family." (Am. jour. soc. 21:702) Bibliographies at chapter-ends." A. L. A. bkl.

Truth about woman. '13 Dodd $2.50
396

"An able, suggestive and often original presentation of the viewpoint of the advanced woman in which the author draws on the facts of biology, anthropology and history, . . . for the main substance and foundation of her argument. She advocates greater freedom for women on the ground that it will subserve the interests of the race, not as a step toward a higher individual culture as does Mayreder, regarding an independent and enlightened motherhood as the end of freedom. Bibliography (op)" A. L. A. bkl.

Motherhood and the relationships of the sexes.

'17 Dodd $2.50 396

"The author is an Englishwoman. She pleads for honesty in teaching reproduction to children, for special education of the adolescent girl, and for a saner and freer education of women in sex matters, feeling that the basis of society rests on educated motherhood. Bibliography (14p)" A. L. A. bkl.
